United States Patent [19]

Prudden

[11] 4,006,224

[45] Feb. 1, 1977

[54] METHOD AND AGENT FOR TREATING INFLAMMATORY DISORDERS OF THE GASTROINTESTINAL TRACT

[75] Inventor: John Fletcher Prudden, Upper Nyack, N.Y.

[73] Assignee: Lescarden Ltd., Goshen, N.Y.

[22] Filed: Sept. 29, 1975

[21] Appl. No.: 617,741

[52] U.S. Cl. 424/180; 424/325

[51] Int. Cl.[2] A61K 31/13; A61K 31/70

[58] Field of Search 424/325, 180

[56] References Cited

UNITED STATES PATENTS

3,232,836 2/1966 Carlozzi et al. 424/180

3,683,076 8/1972 Rovoti 424/180

3,912,714 10/1975 Kulbakh 424/180

Primary Examiner—Stanley J. Friedman

Attorney, Agent, or Firm—Darby & Darby

[57] ABSTRACT

A method for alleviating inflammatory diseases of the gastro intestinal tract by administration of a composition containing a D-glucosamine salt of a pharmaceutically acceptable acid. The invention also pertains to a new mode of administering D-glucosamine for treatment of inflammatory disorders of the gastrointestinal tract.

18 Claims, No Drawings