

9

automatically store the valid web service in a list of available web services.

6. The system of claim 5, further comprising:
a geospatial portal configured to receive a map request from a remote computer and to transfer documents to the remote computer from the stored list of valid web services.

7. The system according to claim 6, wherein the transferred documents appear to the remote computer user to come from a single service.

10

8. The system according to claim 5, the instructions further configured to:

designate sources of information or web services which return a valid response as valid and add the sources of information or web services to the list of sources available to users.

* * * * *