

7

segment, and intermediate rear support segment and a lower front support segment between which the lower elongated body of the alarm means is positioned, and a lower support tab which engages a bottom end of the lower portion of the alarm means to limit downward movement thereof relative to the vertical wall. 5

19. The drowsiness warning device of claim 18, wherein the strap means includes hook and loop tape fasteners, and wherein the intermediate sections comprise a vertically stiff, exteriorly facing support member, a fibrous interiorly facing lining adjacent to the support member, and upper and lower edge guards extending over, respectively, upper and lower edges of the support member and the adjacent lining.

8

* * * * *