

end, in combination with a cover for said open end having an annular cylindrical portion adapted to frictionally engage the receptacle and close the open end and an annular border on the cover extending out from the receptacle and thence substantially parallel with the receptacle and overhanging the said holes and a thin strip of paper is interposed between the can and the cylindrical portion of the cover, said strip extending from and covering the said holes on the outside of the container thus providing an exposed portion of the strip between the annular border and the can. 10

ANTONIO ALVAREZ.