

25

selected entry by the console module with which the selected entry is associated.

2. The computer-implemented method according to claim 1, further comprising suppressing the programmatically adding for any one of the at least one selectable entries for which a run-time lookup determines that an invocable implementation thereof is not available, thereby preventing an attempt to invoke that one of the at least one selectable entries.

26

3. The computer-implemented method according to claim 1, wherein the content aggregation framework is a portal and the selectable entries correspond to portlets.

* * * * *